

Lavantgarde : „Inside Out“

CD-Info

Unmistakable expressive singing mixed with a very unique and positive music energy ...to cut a long story short "emotional electronic dance music" is how you could describe the sound of LAVANTGARDE. 2 Years after their last release "Musicment" and a small correction of the band name, LAVANTGARDE are back with a new longplayer.

The successor work " Inside Out " is a further contradiction to the typical clichés of electronic music. Similar but far more structured and song-orientated to the predecessor, LAVANTGARDE veil emotions and feelings in an electronic robe with lovely catchy anthems and expressive singing, without neglecting the dance floor. It was important for the band members for their music to reflect their lively, refreshing, carefreeness and the typical LAVANTGARDE bitter-sweet melancholy. At the same time they bridged the gap between sophisticated-sometimes thoughtful texts- and a positive radiance which the listener will find rather hard to resist. No matter what: Synth pop, Electro, commerce or independent, with their songs they are consciously ignoring the rules and are trying to open up the borders. "Inside Out " is the evidence for this.

History:

For over 10 years now, the charismatic singer Frank and the soundbuilder and player Nick from Hildesheim have devoted themselves to electronic music. In 1990 they had a tape out and played some gigs together with Wolfsheim, Camouflage and De/Vision but later got more involved into the music of the dance scene. However, they never lost their roots and continuously developed their style of music, which is quite unmistakable, with a particular mix of harmonies and sometimes melancholic melodies. In year 2000, a couple of new songs were written and due to a tour with Alphaville in 2002 they decided to bring out the CD "Musicment". This was followed by further gigs with Beborn Beton, a couple of gigs on DM parties and the most recent performance was at the "Wave Gothic Treffen" in Leipzig. So throughout the years LAVANTGARDE have shown their live potential as a performing band on stage with plenty of well-known bands and need not fear comparison with either of them.
